

Ireland has a longstanding commitment to international development. Research is the key to our effectiveness in reducing poverty and vulnerability worldwide. DSA Ireland is helping create a vibrant development studies community and is now providing an effective platform to enable researchers, policy-makers and practitioners from across the development community in Ireland to share knowledge and resources.

How widely known is the value of the DSAI in the sector? Perhaps not as much as it should.

A new brochure, promotional video and sustainability plans aim to address this during the course of such a session.

Facilitated by: Olivia Wilkinson (PhD Student, Trinity College Dublin, and DSA Ireland Post Graduate Student Representative) and Hugh Bergin (Independent Consultant)